NUMBER 86

Providence Baffles Paris Electric Light Company.

Fithian Rye, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rye, who reside on Ferguson street, came near meeting a horrible death yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The young man was playing on the porch with his neighbor playmates, the children of Mr. John Connell, when his hand came in contact with a wire screen around the porch which was crossed by a live electric wire running into Mr. Connell's residence. The boy could not let go or could not be pulled away from the screen and was cooking to death when Mr. Leer Stout rushed to the rescue and cut the electric wire with a stroke with a hatchet. It was thought the boy was dead, but Drs. Fithian and Daugherty soon arrived on the scene and by heroic treatment the little fellow was brought around, and it is thought he will pull through all right. He received a burn on back of his left wrist about six inches long and to the bone, which looked as if some one had cut it with a sharp knife, and another burn on left temple. It was simply a case where Providence baffled the Paris Electric Light Company again.

We do not know who is at fault in regard to the careless manner in which the electric light plant is run in this city, but surely something should be done to protect the citizens of our city from the dangerous live wires and the miserable service now being given. Patience has ceased to be a virtue in this matter and our citizens should demand of the Mayor and Board of Council to cease their playing and dickerings with this company.

Only a few weeks ago a young man was knocked down by a live wire as he was returning home from his work. We understand that the entire plant is nothing more or less than a batch of patches and that the city was never entirely rewired as people understood it would be sometime ago.

City of Paris Sued.

Mrs. Wyatt Thompson filed suit Friday against the City of Paris asking for $1,500 damages, alleged to have sustained by the city running a sewer under the plaintiff's residence on Second street.

Removal Notice.

The popular merchant, Mr. James E. Craven, has leased the store room lately vacated by Baldwin Bros. meat store and will shortly move into same. Mr. Craven's business has so increased by his strict attention to business and his fast increasing business that he has been forced to get more commodious quarters. Mr. Craven will have everything good for Thanksgiving and invites the custom of those who want something nice.

Dr. W. H. Current Dead.

Dr. W. H. Current, aged 61 years, died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Gano Leer, on Seventh street, at 3 o'clock, Sunday morning, after several months illness with cancer of the liver.

Dr. Current was the son of the late Eli Current, who years ago was one of Bourbon's most prominent farmers, residing near Centerville.

The deceased entered the Confederate army when a boy of seventeen years of age, joining Buford's command and was later transferred to Col. Howard Smith's regiment under General Morgan. He was considered by his comrades a daring and brave soldier. Returning from the war he went back to the farm, and in the eighties went to Cincinnati to study medicine, afterwards becoming a specialist in the treatment of cancer. He was a fine specimen of the true Kentuckian, a man of handsome appearance, brave and generous to a fault. His friends were numbered by the hundreds.

He is survived by one son, Newton Current, of this city, and two daughters, Mrs. Gano Leer, of this city, and Mrs. Ollie Current Spears, of Denver, Col.

The funeral services were held at the grave in Paris cemetery yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by Elder Carey E. Morgan, and the burial ceremony of the Confederate Veterans, of which he was an honored member.

The pall-bearers were: Lan Fretwell, Willis Goodman, Martin K. Talbot, Joseph S. Godman, Allen M. Kiser and Newton Current, Sr.

Slander Suit Started.

The trial of the $25,000 slander suit of Lee Anderson against James B. Haggin and Charles H. Berryman, the general manager of Haggin's Elmendorf Farm, was begun in the Fayette Circuit Court Saturday. The jury was selected and the opening statement of council made and the taking of testimony began yesterday. Anderson was formerly night watchman at Elmendorf, and was charged by Manager Berryman with burning a barn. He was acquitted of the charge in the lower courts, and the grand jury refused to indict him, and the damage suit resulted.

Democratic Gains.

The election news, since the full returns have been reported, shows great Democratic gains. The election of all the state officers in New York, other than the Governor, by small Democratic majorities in spite of all the weight and influence of the Administration indicates that the great heart of the Empire state still beats in unison with Democracy and that with popular candidates in 1908 the electoral vote of the state is likely to be in the Democratic column.

But the most wonderful change from abject surrender to the trust and corporation to the reviving influences of good government is in New Jersey. A tabulation of the votes by counties shows a Democratic majority of 11,280 in the State. The Republican plurality for the Assembly tickets last year was 57,978 and Roosevelt was elected by 80,000 and there was 51,000 majority for the Republican Governor. This is the first Democratic majority in the State since 1893 and indicates that "Jersey justice" will cleanse the State of the ring of corruptionists and grafters that have infested her and like New York will be again doubtful States with chances favoring the Democracy.

The other Democratic gains are in Rhode Island, Minnesota, North Dakota, Missouri and Oklahoma, which States all gave large Democratic majorities. The Democratic candidate for Governor of Kansas was only defeated by 2000 votes, a gain of 65,000 over the vote of 1904. The Democratic gain of over fifty members of Congress shows the general trend of the country to swing towards Democratic policies and when the standpat doctrine of the Republican Congress further indicates that real tariff reform is impossible as long as that party controls the legislative branch of the government, there will be a still greater revolt against high trust prices, which these corporations are protected by the tariff in extorting.

All that Democrats have to do to ensure success is to get together on essential policies and leave any differences on minor matters to be settled by Congress and Legislatures as they arise and perfect their organization in the several States that will see that Democratic votes go to the polls and their votes are honestly counted.

It Don't Pay to Sulk.

The true philosophy of life is to accept what happens as gracefully as possible, says the Georgetown Times, and we agree with our brother. The Bourbon News, like the Times, has seen too many of the ups and downs in life, to grieve long over spilled milk, whether it happens in politics or in other matters, and it don't sulk in its tent when things don't go exactly to suit it. It don't pay to sulk. If it can't get what it wants, it takes the next best thing that is offered. The News believed too, and still believes, that Senator McCreary was better fitted for United States Senator than Governor Beckham, but majority of voters thought differently, and it has no kicking to do. The canvass was a bitter one, and left many sores, some of which will be a long time in healing, but it behooves the Democratic factions to forget the differences that divided them, and come together as true Democrats should. There will be other elections, and Kentucky ought not to be permitted to fall into the Republican column. Republican administration has been tried in Kentucky and didn't work worth a cent.

He Has Won the Spurs.

When Gov. J. C. W. Beckham enters the United States Senate he will carry with him the distinction of being the youngest Senator that ever stood upon the floor of the United States capitol. Becoming Governor of Kentucky, when he was only one month older than the requisite age of 30 years, he has led on to Washington at the age of 37. When Beckham first became Governor, he was looked upon as having an unusual political opportunity, he having succeeded Goebel because he was lieutenant Governor when the latter was assassinated, seven years ago.

In the face of the most determined opposition, and a strong determination upon the part of the older politicians to oust him as a young upstart, he not only held his own but won every political battle. When it comes to politics, he knows the game, and plays his hand with a cool and calculating head. In retaining the Governorship he met and defeated the most astute politicians of the State, and he has swept aside from his path such men as Senators Blackburn and McCreary, and any number of the little fellows. So it is now high time that anti-Beckham men to fall in line without a whimper and give this young man our heartiest support by electing a Legislature that there can be no doubt of his going to the Senate. He has won the spurs.

Policy Holders Protect Your Interests.

Are you a policy holder in one of the big Life Insurance Companies that are trying to retain control of the geese that have laid the golden eggs to continue to plunder you, but vote for trustees who are entirely free from suspicion and who have been selected by the international policy holders' committee to represent your interests. The candidates on the Administrative tickets, urged by the officials of these companies, are controlled by the same gang of grafters that have robbed and despoiled you in the past, with some new faces added to befog you into electing them. Who can waver between Richard Olney and Harriman to guard their interests. The former is the high class, able and honest gentleman and the latter is the Wall Street shark that permitted his tools to dispense for partisan purposes the trust funds that should have been sacred to the widows and orphans of the policy holders. It is unnecessary to inform a sane man that their pretended reformation is but a cloak for further depredations on your savings.

A Republican Dilemma.

The Republicans nominated a negro judge in Chicago and although many of the voters of that party cut him at the polls, he was elected. They now find he is an ebony elephant on their hands and are trying to get him to resign. It would seem that the Republicans should stand by their party choice now he is elected, for although the negro they nominated for judge was merely intended as a stool pigeon, to draw and catch the other negroes in the Republican net, they should certainly abide by the result. As far as the Democrats are concerned they are rather pleased at their opponents' show of lack of consistency, but will not join in effort to upset the votes of the majority of the people.

Kentucky to Have a Breeding Bureau.

If the plans of a number of progressive breeders of thoroughbreds of the Blue Grass are carried out Kentucky will have a breeding bureau that will be more extensive than anything of the kind ever instituted or suggested.

The plans for the breeders to purchase handsome thoroughbred stallions which cannot be trained and give them to the breeding bureau. The bureau will then dispose of these stallions by giving them away to farmers of Kentucky who live some distance from the Blue Grass sections.

It has been suggested that the State Racing Commission decide where the stallions be sent. In carrying out the plans it was further suggested that all applications for the stallions be made out to the racing commission and then the racing commission is to give the stallions to the section of the State that most needs them. It is not the purpose of the breeders to place their superannuated stallions at the disposal of the bureau, but the best young stallions they can buy which will be adapted to the purpose for which they are desired.

The Cattle Market.

Eight cents may be paid for choice beef before the holiday market. The 74 cent notch has already been reached on a few cracker-jacks, the tailings of a bunch that is being put in show condition for the International. This will indicate how good they had to be to make the price and what slight chance the average feeder has to get such money. Viewed from any standpoint present market conditions are not unsatisfactory. Prices are so much higher than a year ago as to leave the feeder a margin of profit and if existing conditions can be maintained little complaint will be heard. Last week saw an appreciation of about 25 cents and although an increased supply took off a little of it again this week the market is fairly healthy. Choice cattle selling at $7 or higher are at the best point of the season. Others are about 25 cents lower. A lot of steers are going over the scales at $4.75 to $6.50. Cattle selling at $4 and under are tailenders, however, and cut but little figure in the general supply. Decent, cheap, killing cattle are worth $4.75 and not much stuff is moving under that price. Exporters are buying a lot of cheap cattle, weighing around 1,200 pounds, for Liverpool trade at $5.00 to $5.25 taking the bulk of what they buy for that market. While a part of a load of choice Angus steers sold at $7.50, the high point of the year, late last week $7.25 is about the summit for a full load and few cattle good enough to justify bids above $8 are available. Light and medium killing steers are selling at $4.75 to $5.50 with thin, tail-end stuff at $4.00 to $4.50. Good yearlings are holding their own and have been selling a little higher if anything. British markets came higher this week and exporters were free buyers of their kind of cattle. At Liverpool, States steers sold to 122 cents, dead weight, against 121 cents last week and 104 cents a year ago. Shipping demand is good but the market is sensitive and the presence of a few more cattle than demand actually calls for invariably exercises a disturbing influence.

Whisky Kills Child.

Minnie, the six-year old daughter of James Cannon the proprietor of a saloon at Hopkinsville, Ky., died from the effects of four ounces of whisky which she drank Wednesday afternoon. The child with her baby sister, was playing in the room where a bottle, containing the whisky, was on a mantel where it had been placed by the mother. The child climbed upon a chair and secured the bottle and drank all the contents after giving just a sip to her baby sister. The first intimation the mother had of the action of the child was when the baby came toddling in where she was and complained because Minnie drank all the whisky and would just barely let her taste it. The child soon became extremely ill and everything possible was done to counteract the effects but all efforts proved fruitless.

Postmaster Robbed.

G. W. Fouts, postmaster of Riverton, Ia., nearly lost his life and was robbed of all comfort, according to his letter, which says: "For 20 years I had chronic liver complaint, which led to such a severe case of jaundice that even my finger nails turned yellow; when my doctor prescribed Electric Bitters; which cured me and have kept me well for eleven years." Sure cure for biliousness, neuralgia, weakness and all stomach, liver kidney and bladder derangements. A wonderful tonic. At Oberdorfer's drug store. 50c cents.

The Divorce Congress.

The National Congress on uniform divorce laws, in session at Philadelphia, has adopted about one-third of the proposed uniform bill. The portions adopted include six causes for absolute divorce—infidelity, felony, desertion, habitual drunkenness and intolerable cruelty—and in the discussions of the various sections there was little opposition to any of these provisions, but in the list of causes for annulment of marriage, opposition was presented against separation.

Fortunate Missourians.

"When I was a druggist at Livonia, Mo.," writes T. J. Dwyer, now of Graysville, Mo., "three of my customers were permanently cured of consumption by Dr. King's New Discovery, and are well and strong today. One was trying to sell his property and move to Arizona, but after using New Discovery a short time he found it unnecessary to do so. I regard Dr. King's New Discovery as the most wonderful medicine in existence." Surest cough and cold cure and throat and lung healer. Guaranteed by Oberdorfer, the druggist. 50c and 1.00. Trial bottle free.

—According to the census of 1900 the chicken population of the United States was two hundred and thirty millions, while turkeys numbered six and one-half millions, geese five and one-half millions and ducks nearly five millions. It is estimated that three hundred million chickens and other forms of poultry are consumed in this country each year, an average of less than four per capita. Chickens are generally first choice and the first to run out on the menu of the hotel and restaurant. There is no more staple and popular article of food, and it is safe to expect the demand to develop in proportion and to the care and intelligence with which the markets are supplied. No stock on the farm brings better relative returns for expenditures than poultry, and there is no better place for the industry than in the Southern States.

A Desirable Nicholas County Farm FOR SALE

Tuesday, November 27th, 1906,

at 11:30 o'clock a. m., the farm owned by Mr. Smith at the time of his death. This farm is situated at Pleasant Springs, Nicholas County, seven miles southwest of Carlisle, and four miles southeast of Millersburg, on turnpike roads leading to both cities, and contains

About 95 Acres of Choice Land.

There is on the premises a two-story dwelling house of seven rooms and two halls; tobacco barn 44x84 feet; stock barn, cow stable, grainery, buggy house, smoke house, cistern and well, and old and new orchard.

It is well watered by ponds and by Hinkston Creek. About 25 or 20 acres in beautiful woodland, balance in high state of cultivation.

Owing to the many conveniences and improvements, rich fertility of the soil, location as to neighborhood and accessibility, this place constitutes one of the most desirable farm homes in this section of the State.

Sale will be made subject to survey and upon the following TERMS: $1,000 cash at day of sale, when deed will be delivered. Balance in three equal installments: 1st installment due March 1, 1907; 2d installment March 1, 1908; 3d installment March 1, 1909. KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS MEMORIAL.

The leaves must fall, the rose must fade, the dawn must pass away, the fairest day must close its eyes when the shadows play sleepy songs beside the portals of the sunset.

In the passing away of Brother Ed. D. Paton, Rathbone Lodge, No. 12, Knights of Pythias, has again learned its lesson. Loss and gain are relative. "The night here is somewhere else the dawn." What we lose—another gains. Earth is a kindly mother, taking only what she gave. In his decease we have lost a man, a friend, a brother; one who possessed in heaped and rounded measure that "touch of kindred which makes the whole world kin." Earth has claimed her dust, eternity has taken her jewel.

When his great heart ceased its kindly beat, humanity had lost a friend. Faithful to every trust, true to every duty, loyal to every call, Ed. D. Paton cared, for all alike, kindness in his heart, love in his heart and true Pythian friendship in the clasp of his hand.

The hours will hide his faults, but the fitting of the years will harmless leave his virtue—as living monument of unselfishness—until the Great "I Am" unbars the gates of sleep and once again invades the realms of pulseless death.

Resolved, That copy of these words, poorly expressing the grief we feel and the sympathy we have for the loved ones left behind, be sent to his bereaved family, another copy be spread upon the permanent records of this lodge, and the county papers be requested to publish the same as a testimonial to the loss the community has sustained.

Worst Blizzard in Years.

The worst blizzard experienced in a decade is now raging in Colorado. The storm started Sunday and gradually grew in severity, when it assumed the proportions of a blizzard, increasing in severity each hour.

The Colorado Southern railroad reports a storm extending into the panhandle of Texas. In Northern New Mexico the blizzard is at its worst. Heavy losses of sheep and cattle in New Mexico territory and in Colorado are almost certain to occur.

An Ex-Parisian Triumphs.

James R. McCann, ex-Parisian, who with his charming wife, are members of the Adelaide Thurston Company in "The Girl From Out Yonder," are receiving some very fine press notices in the cities in which they are appearing. The Mansfield, Ohio, Daily Shield, in a column article, says of him:

"And what a dear, delightful old salt, was Cap'n Amos Barton, the keeper of the light house on Great Reef Island up on the coast of Maine, as portrayed by James R. McCann. It was sympathetic; it was refreshing and inspiring and the world is better for the delineation of such a character. You and I have known such men and loved them. We cherish their memory. God give us more of that kind of people! You didn't hear him telling about what a religious man he was and how bad everybody else was and how unselfish humanity patterned after him there wasn't any hope for humanity now or hereafter. I should say not. Goodness radiated from him. Every act proclaimed the possibilities of moral stature. It's the life you live; not what you tell people you are."

Olga Nethersole at Lexington Next Week.

Olga Nethersole and her big English Company will be at the Lexington Opera House next Wednesday and Thursday and Thursday (Thanksgiving) Matinee. In order that her admirers may have as varied an entertainment as possible she will be seen in three of her greatest successes. On Wednesday evening she will appear as "Paula" in A. W. Pinero's "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," this is considered her greatest creation. At the Thanksgiving Matinee "Sapho" will be the bill, while in the evening of Thanksgiving day Paul Hervie's great drama, "The Labyrinth" will be presented. These great plays should give Lexington and adjoining town theatre goers opportunities to compare Miss Nethersole in three absolutely contrasting types of womanhood. Miss Nethersole's company this season is even better than last season. Each play will be handsomely staged and costumed, she carrying all the scenery used. The sale of seats will open Monday morning for all three performances. Orders for seats sent to Manager Scott will receive prompt attention.

Missionary Rally Today.

The Missionary Rally at the Christian Church begins this morning at 10 o'clock, and continues until 4 p. m. Evening services at 7 o'clock. All interested in this great work are cordially invited to attend. The best of speakers will be on hand as well as two missionaries just from the foreign fields.

The Mission, which has been in progress at the church of the Annunciation in this city during the past week, was brought to a close Sunday night. The ending of this service, conducted by the two eloquent and devout Fathers Eugene and Charles, marks a "red letter day" in the annals of the Paris Catholic church. For seven days services were held three times daily, and the unprecedented attendance during the past three or four days and nights, was a source of unfeigned pride and pious consolation to the good Fathers, as well as the popular pastor, Rev. James Cusack.

In point of instruction, enthusiasm, zeal and stirring eloquence on the part of the Passionists, Paris and the church can well congratulate themselves on the success of the mission. The subjects for instructions and the texts of the sermons, were handled in such a masterly eloquent and forceful manner that, he were a hardened sinner indeed, who harkened not to the "still small voice" calling him to follow the Master's injunction and obey His precepts of loving kindness and tender mercies.

The Rev. Father Eugene has impressed himself on this community, with fall people, as a singularly pious, eloquent and able "Champion of the Cross," as a man of deep learning and strong convictions combined with the consummate mastery of the Anglo-Saxon tongue and equally as much an adept in all the arts of elocution and rhetoric that go to round out a full resonant melodious sentences the graces of a true orator and a great evangelist.

The Rev. Father Charles was equally impressive and more diacritic in his practical application of Gospel truths. May the mission of these pious and eloquent Fathers redound greatly to the cause of Christ in this community, and may the fruits of their work and influence be a perennial and unfailing source of the gentle spirit of Him who died on Cavalry we—warmed in His precious blood—might live to save our immortal souls.

In the simple and unpretentious lives of these men, who abandoned position, earthly honors and all the most of us hold dear, that they might lead men in paths of peace and righteousness, there is a valuable lesson to us all, that teaches self-denial, kindness, patience and fortitude, a lesson, if we but heed, that may make the Mission of Christians a vital part of that "Choir Invisible," whose music is the gladness of the world.

A Mistaken Idea.

It is queer that some folks have an idea that everything bought away from home is the best. This is purely and simply a myth. For instance, take the clothing business, ask any one who has ever bought clothes from J. W. Davis & Co., and they will tell you that the fit, quality and style pleased them, and as to the price for the same quality of goods, they had to pay more elsewhere. This firm has the best line of imported woollens west of New York, and there is no question about them having one of the best cutters.

Spend your money with Davis and be pleased and satisfied and at the same time leave your money at home - you will no doubt get some of it back. 20-1t

C. M. Work on New Capitol.

Work on the new State Capitol at Frankfort is progressing rapidly, three stories of the structure being already up, and the work of putting on the cornices and the roof will be well under way before January 1, next. All of the large columns of the Bedford stone, which form the main ornamental features of the building have been swung into place, the last one being hoisted from the cars Saturday and set in position just above the main entrance of the building.

Fair Directors Meet.

The directors of the Bourbon County Agricultural Society met Saturday and transacted much important business. Committees were appointed and assigned duties looking to the interest of the next fair. The most important committee appointed was that on grounds, and is composed of Joseph W. Davis, Robt. J. Neely and Hon. A. S. Thompson. They will within next few days make arrangements to put out 150 maple and Carolina poplar trees and sow the grounds in bluegrass. They will also have in charge the erection of a new floral hall, which will be built in the early spring.

The Board of Directors instructed Secretary Charles A. Webber to notify all delinquent subscribers to the capital stock of the society to pay up by January 1, 1907, or they would be proceeded against according to law for the collection of whatever amount they were in arrears. The first week in September, 1907, was selected as the time of the holding of the sixty-first meeting of the Association.

Wholesale Warrants Expected in Lexington.

Attorney General N. B. Hays made a brief visit to Lexington Saturday and spent most of the time with H. E. Ross, an attorney who was the Lexington manager of the Hays' campaign during the recent primary election. It is understood that Mr. Hays will make vigorous efforts to carry out his election threat to put into the penitentiary twelve hundred voters in Lexington who he believed were illegally registered, and his conference with Attorney Ross was for the purpose of arranging preliminary steps for the prosecutions.

Ever since the election Mr. Ross has been busily engaged in preparing affidavits for arrests in these cases, and it is said, wholesale arrests will be made as soon as the affidavits are secured. They are waiting for the return of Commonwealth Attorney Jno. R. Allen from Arkansas.

A Beautiful Play.

"When Knighthood Was in Flower," which comes to the Grand next Friday evening, Nov. 23, is one of the most charming plays which please, not only by reason of a romantic love story, but also by their picturesque and gorgeous costumes and scenery in pointed illustration of the period when all was chivalry, braveness and beauty. In the play as it is being presented this season under the auspices of Ernest Shipman, all the manly attributes of the time find expression in Alfred Swensen as Charles Brandon, lover of Mary Tudor, Princess of England. But it is in Mary Tudor that the most interest lies; a girl with a story all her own, made natural, winsome and lovable by the wonderful acting of Anna Day, one of the cleverest actresses of the American stage.

Wants Damages For Loss Of Thoroughbreds.

Hon. J. Hal Woodford, through his attorneys, McMillan & Talbot, filed suit Friday against the L. & N. R. R. for $3,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained in the loss of two valuable two-year-old thoroughbreds, which were shipped over the defendant company's road August 1, from Lexington to Covington. The two colts were War Coat, by Pink Coat—War Maiden, and Clayton by John Bright—Babble, full sister to Leo Lake which sold for $10,000.

The petition alleges that on the day of shipment the colts were loaded at Lexington along with another colt and an aged horse for shipment, that the colts were accompanied by an attendant and left Lexington on schedule time, about 8:15 p. m. The train was due in Paris at 9:30 but was delayed in the local yards and did not leave Paris until after 11 o'clock, nearly three hours late, and arrived in Covington more than five hours late. While in transit the colts became overheated and after being unloaded, one died in a few hours, the other during the afternoon; the third lingered between life and death for more than a month, finally recovering, while the older horse did not suffer from the alleged delay in shipment.

Dangers of Defective Plumbing!

Defective plumbing permits the entrance into the house of sewer gas bearing germs of contagious disease to which the human system readily succumbs. Sewer gas is not necessarily generated in the sewer, but is frequently created in the plumbing system within the home and enters the apartments through defective fixtures. If in doubt consult us regarding the piping and repairing defective fixtures with "STANDARD" Porcelain Enamelled Ware, acknowledged as the best sanitary equipment.

In Old Kentucky.

The following is an interesting letter written by a visitor to our recent Bourbon Fair back to his home paper at Tazewell, Va.:

It has been the pleasure of those whose interest I represent to give me the privilege of seeing all of the "blue grass region of Kentucky. It is the realization of the dream of almost anyone who has read or heard of its fame. "The greatest country in the United States." Here we might place a period—for that, as the "possum trotters" of this country would say "kivers the ground."

It struck me that if Abraham had been called upon to divide Kentucky with Lot, he would have been a long time saying, "Lot you take the Blue Grass end and I'll take the mountains." Could the Patriarchs of old Bible times have only seen such a land they would have exclaimed "milk and honey" sure enough, the Queen of Sheba would have simply winked the other eye at Solomon and passed on from Danville to Lexington, Versailles, Georgetown, Paris, Winchester, Frankfort, Richmond and the whole host of towns the Lord only knows which is in the best section of the country, which is the best town and which has the best hotels, the cleverest people, big hearted to a fault especially courteous to strangers. It is unnecessary to mention her beautiful women, her fame, and that of the fine Kentucky horse is known and read of all men. It is saying a good deal for Tazewell county, Virginia, to say that Kentucky and Kentuckians remind one of home—Kentucky is simply Tazewell on a great big scale. The hospitality of the two peoples is very much alike. Everything is done whole-souled, with open heart and hand—even to the "cussin"—the "outspokenest," flat-footedest sarchinset cussin' that I ever heard in all my life is put up by the men of Kentucky; cuss anything, and each other, especially if the argument is about a horse.

If you were to hear two old retired horse veterans as I did one night after supper sitting in front of a hotel, during the Fair, cuss and discuss their opinions of the various horses exhibited and not laugh you would have to be mighty "sound in the doctrine" and "firm in the faith." If "Brit" could spend a month down here during the Fairs he would give you that peculiar little giggle the balance of the year.

It wouldn't do for "Lishe" to be down here during a thunder storm, for he believes in being very mule and humble when it's lightning right keen. Our Tazewell people who have invested here, invested wisely. C. J. Barnes (Clint) is deservedly popular at Paris both as a citizen and lawyer. A beautiful home with five acres, and fine lawn shaded with almost every known tree of the forest was a splendid investment and has advanced decidedly in value. This home has open doors for all Virginia friends, who come this way. J. C. Freeman made the fine investment in two blue grass farms. I had the pleasure of being driven over these fine estates by Mrs. Rhudessil, a sister of Mr. Freeman, but sad indeed was the conclusion, when instead of meeting him we drove to his last resting place in the beautiful cemetery at Paris, where he indeed and in truth sleeps the sleep of the just. Tazewell never lost a better citizen than John C. Freeman. The bankers and other prominent citizens of Paris speak of his memory in the tenderest words of highest praise.

The Baldwin boys, sons of Jas. H. Baldwin are doing as fine grocery and meat market business as any one of that section and will soon move in new and elegant quarters which they will build in the near future.

The soil here has superior value because of its successful growing of several crops, namely, wheat, corn, tobacco, hemp, bluegrass and all fruits and vegetables. Tobacco is one of the most profitable of all productions, the export cattle not excepted. Perhaps more money is made on fine horses than anything else. Hemp pays well. So you can readily see why investment in Kentucky land is a good one, especially in 10 and 200 acres. I heard renters say that they would clear this year on tobacco about $500 or $800 and some as high as $1,500. Compare all these crops with our Tazewell blue grass land and you can readily see the advantage. Then they do not work crops here scarcely at all except with the plow. The land is smooth. There are still good investments in Kentucky for Southwest Virginia capital. I had hoped to write something of several of the fine estates near Lexington such as Haggins and Keene, of New York, and John R. Madden of divorce fame, of some of the noted horses raised on these estates—but will defer. It would require a good deal of space to describe the Haggins estate of 6,000 acres, which is as nearly an earthly paradise as it is possible to make one. When I take it all in I will report. T. F. The Negro Question.

The negro question, taken up by the Southern Immigration and Quarantine conference, which met at Nashville, Tenn., last week, received prolonged discussion by men representative of every section of the South. Gov. John E. Cox, of Tennessee, presided. The meeting was called primarily to discuss methods to procure for the South a proper share of the immigration arriving in the United States, but this discussion had not gone far when the race problem came up, and it occupied the attention of most of the session. Gov. Heyward, of South Carolina, made the principal speech of the day, and was wildly cheered when he declared that immigration would yet solve the negro problem.

"Sectional feeling, fortunately, is passing away and our people understand each other better," said Gov. Heyward. "Problems which were at one time peculiarly Southern are becoming National. We Americans are more and more mutually carrying the white man's burden. We have been seeking for some time to make some change in our political and economic system which will affect the negro alone and which will, at the same time, aid in solving our problem."

"The white race is the predominant race, and the negro must understand once and for all that the bounds of the social and political questions will be determined by the white man alone and by the white man's code. He has a right to expect that his civil status shall be the same in every respect as is that of the white man."

"A proper understanding of these fundamental principles by the negro—and there is no reason why he should not understand—would be a long step in the right direction. If he refuses to adjust himself to these inflexible conditions then the negro will have to go."

A Niece of McKinley.

The devotion of Mrs. Grace McKinley Heidt, niece of the martyred President, for her husband, Capt. Grayson Heidt, of the President of the whole War Department and ship as a stowaway on the transport Dix, bound for the Philippine islands. Mrs. Heidt, finding that all her appeals to the President and the War Department that she be allowed to accompany her husband on the transport were in vain, donned one of Capt. Heidt's uniforms, stuffed the loose places with sandwiches and hard-tack, and a bottle of water, slipped aboard the transport and took refuge among the boxes and bales.

The vessel was three days out from land, when a steward discovered the girl and, being unaware of her sex, dragged her to the deck to face the captain of the vessel. As she stood there, trembling with fright and shame, soiled, disheveled, and pale from lack of food and proper quarters, the stowaway's husband came on deck. He did not know that she was aboard, but he recognized her in a moment. He stepped to her side and taking her tenderly in his arms, faced the officers and said proudly, "I don't care who knows it; she is my wife!" It was an embarrassing moment for all persons present. The Captain, who had just thundered at the stowaway what she meant by stealing a ride on an army vessel, was confused at the revelation of her identity. To make matters still more uncomfortable for the men, Mrs. Heidt sobbed against her husband's breast.

Of course there was nothing for the captain to do but give the determined girl a cabin with her beloved husband and to allow her to continue on the journey. Rules or no rules she couldn't be put off the ship them. But she had to get permission to continue her journey to the Philippines with her husband from the transfer officers at Honolulu. There she secured some female clothing, for there was none on board the Dix.

Mrs. Heidt became the bride of the young captain in Des Moines, Ia., in July. The young couple are devoted to each other and when the order came for Capt. Heidt to go to the Philippines, both of them exerted every effort to get permission for Mrs. Heidt to go also. But it was against the rules of the War Department to allow women on army transports and they had to submit. At the docks in Seattle both of them cried piteously, when they had to part. That was early in the morning. Before the ship sailed out to sea the daring girl made unreasonably bold by love, had disguised herself, and defying the highest power of the land, slipped aboard the ship. Capt. Heidt is said to have been unaware of her in his wife with him, he was displeased at her defiance of the President and the War Department.

THE LIVER QUARANTINE

"TAKING HIS MEALS OUT."

Herried eating has ruined many a man's stomach. The digestion-destroying process is gradual, often unnoticed at first. But it is only a short time until the liver balks, the digestive organs give way, and almost countless ills assail the man who endeavors to economize time at the expense of his health. A torpid liver causes a quarantine of the entire system. It locks in the diseased germs and body poisons and affords them full play, inviting some serious illness. In families where August Flower is used, a sluggish liver and constipation are unknown, so are all stomach ailments, as well as indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, headaches and kidney and bladder affections. No well-regulated family should be without this standard remedy. Two sizes, 25¢ and 75¢. All druggists.

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

We will send you a sample free.

Gov. Odell on Roosevelt's Interference.

Former Gov. Odell, commenting on the New York election, says the management of the Republican State campaign was the most astute he ever knew.

Continuing, Mr. Odell said: "The people of this State have always resented the interference of a President of the United States in their local elections. They have done so since the days of Dewitt Clinton. I think that the interference of President Roosevelt did more harm than good."

"I realize now," said Mr. Odell, "that I made a mistake when I accepted the chairmanship of the State Committee while I was Governor. The people resent official and outside interference in their local political affairs. That is why I say that the interference of President Roosevelt in the last campaign did more harm than good."

"I do not wish to appear in the role of general critic of the conduct of the campaign, but so far as I can make out there was no real campaign. No use was made of the record of the Republican party. It was all a case of personalities between the candidates for Governor. We should have stood for many of the things that Mr. Hearst advocated, like the eight-hour law and the three platoon system for the police and firemen."

Mr. Odell said that Mr. Hearst was greatly strengthened as a political factor by his campaign, and that while he might not be elected President he was now a man to be reckoned with in the future. He said that a combination of Bryan and Hearst would be a hard one to beat.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address:

Huge Task.

It was a huge task to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease, as that of C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Iowa, but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone, I could not sit on a chair without a cushion; and suffered from dreadful backache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure, and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach." Dogs Retired By Uncle Sam.

Two of Uncle Sam's "retired" mail carriers are resting in Portland, Ore. They are just out from Alaska, where they have been on the mail route, drawing the mail sleds for several seasons, bearing messages of love and good cheer from the "outside" across hundreds of miles of snow and ice, to lighten the lonely hearts of the fur-smothered toilers in "The Great White Silence."

"Beppo" and "Betsy" are full blooded Malamutes and were raised at the Government station at Nome. Dogs of that breed are seldom seen outside of Alaska. They came originally from Siberia, where they were used as sledge dogs. Hundreds of these animals are raised every year by the Government to use in carrying mail in Alaska.

What Life Means to Me.

We clip the following from the Common Sense, a paper published at Los Angeles, Cal., which will be of interest to the many old friends here of L. T. Fisher, an ex-Parisian, who is now Editor of Facts and Figures, at Los Angeles. Mr. Fisher was for a number of years a partner of Mr. F. L. Cheney, editors of the old Western Citizen in this city, before it was consolidated with the Kentuckian. The article is as follows:

My life, as I recall it, begins with the death of my widowed mother, when I was eight years old, at which time my brother and myself became companions of three orphan cousins all under the care of our grand parents. The entire family consisted of some twenty blacks and ten whites. Our home was a grand Kentucky bluegrass farm. The blacks scarcely realized that they were slaves, and the whites rarely noted the fact they were masters.

For six years we grandchildren had a life full of fun and childish adventure. Our principal woe was a pretty regular Monday morning licking for our Sunday escapades. The old folks were very religious.

At the age of fourteen I went off to a neighboring town to learn the printing business. I stayed a year and ran away. The "boss" was a brute. I next went to a farther off town and entered another printing office. I remained three years, and ran away again. I had done enough for my board and clothes.

I then passed successively through the experiences of journeyman printer, college student, and country school teacher. This brought me to the war. I spent three years in the Confederate army. My friends went into the fight, and I drifted with them. I left the matter wholly with the commanders. When they said fight I fought, when they said run, I ran; and I proved to be as good a runner as a fighter.

I came back to school teaching for a little while. I then entered into journalism, which has been my principal work ever since. I edited a Democratic paper in Kentucky for five years. In 1873 I came to California, and drifted along with the "wild, woolly west" for twenty years.

In my early printing days I learned to chew tobacco, smoke cigars and drink whisky. Being something of an idealist I contracted the early habit of reading novels and going to the theatres. In my "ups and downs"—and they have been many—I had two good angels that always cheered me—a lively imagination and a keen sense of humor. As between my sojourn in my castles in Spain, and my laughter at the absurdities about me, life has not been altogether gloomy.

My philosophy was of the easy sort. I couldn't stay the tide, so I simply drifted with the crowd. I simply played the game. If I won I was that much ahead; if I lost I was that much the loser. But I had to play or quit. I had no problem, no settled purpose. I simply drifted.

A or religion, I left that with the orthodox preachers. I once believed all they said; then I believed only part. Now I know very little as to what they are saying and care less. I suppose I am a heathen—a sort of pantheistic agnostic. I believe in the all-good as far as I can see; after that I don't know. Neither do you.

Up to ten years ago I was a pessimist. It seemed to me the world had gotten into a cul de sac and there was no way out. As a newspaper man I saw so much that was mere sham. But I didn't think seriously. I was a mild cynic. Had I done otherwise I should have concluded that life is not worth living.

Now I am an optimist. I believe in the final triumph of the good. I reached this change of mind and heart through the study of socialism. This change has been a new birth—a new life to me. I have quit tobacco and whisky; do less dreaming. I have no soul-longing for the infinite; but I keep up a lively faith in the true, the beautiful and the good, which I insist all shall embody in their active lives. So I have a problem. It is this—to aid in bringing about conditions that will insure a fair deal for every human being. I ask nothing more for myself.

Knew Him at Once.

"My dear," said the caller, with a winning smile, to the little girl who occupied the study while her father, an eminent literary man, was at his dinner, "I suppose you assist your papa by entertaining the bores?"

"Yes, sir," replied the little girl gravely; "please be seated."

Law Is Declared Invalid.

The Court of Appeals, by Judge Lansing, reversed the Franklin Circuit Court and the State Fiscal Court in the case of the Thierman Company vs. the Commonwealth.

This action involved the validity of the Act of March 24, 1904, relating to "Revenue and taxation for license taxes on compounded, rectified, adulterated or blended spirits, known and designated as single stamp spirits, and imposing penalties," etc.

The chief ground of reversal is that the act is unconstitutional because it originated in the Senate in violation of section 47.

The court holds that the law is one for the raising of revenue and should therefore have originated from the House.

The new law is known as the Richmond Bill of 1904, and provides a tax of 50 cents a barrel on rectified liquor. No tax has been collected under it.

He Couldn't Accept.

A preacher had ordered a load of hay from one of his parishioners. About noon, the parishioner's little son came to the house crying lustily. On being asked what the matter was, he said that the load of hay had tipped over in the street. The preacher, a kindly man, assured the little fellow that it was nothing serious, and asked him to dinner.

"Pa wouldn't like it," said the boy. But the preacher assured him that he would fix it all right with his father, and urged him to take dinner before going for the hay. After dinner the boy was asked if he were not glad that he had stayed.

"Pa won't like it," he persisted. The preacher unable to understand, asked the boy what made him think his father would object.

"Why, you see, pa's under the hay," explained the boy.

ENGLISH SPORT.

It Abounds In Graft That Would Not Be Tolerated Here.

If there is any man on this earth, white or black, who insists that his expenses in competitive sport must be no drain on himself, that man is the Britisher. And he is quite right. An amateur should be neither in nor out a dollar. It is entirely proper that his club, his college, his association or such collection of bodies as he represents should pay his legitimate expenses when he is sent to compete for that college or club or association or union. England goes much farther and gives much more latitude in the matter of expenses than we do. In cricket, for example, "amateur" players in England whose services are desired for the county championship series are literally "found" during the entire season. No graft of this kind could exist in America without raising such a storm as would blow the whole thing to kingdom come. Nor would we tolerate the conditions that obtain in English track athletics and "amateur" football, both of which are steeped in covert professionalism. And as for junketing—why, that comes near to being the Englishman's alter ego—it is a part of the English game. You might as well deprive him of his dearest possession—his prejudice, for instance—as deprive him of his junket. Let the stewards figure up how many good American dollars have gone to satisfy this national predilection through the medium of cricketers, golfers and other English athletes that have visited us.—Caspar Whitney in Outing Magazine.

ODD PRESERVES.

Peach Leather of the South and Wild Rose Jam of Europe.

Perhaps the oddest of all jams (some of which is imported into this country) is made from a red pulp obtained from the seed vessels of the common wild rose of Europe. It is brick red in color and, as might be imagined, is in flavor entirely unlike any other known kind of preserve.

In parts of the south what is known as "peach leather" is made from peach juice, which is put into bright pans and dried in the sun. In the dry state it looks a good deal like leather and is eaten without further preparation, keeping for an indefinite time.

There is commonly manufactured in Turkey a similar product from grapes, the juice being evaporated to the consistency of molasses. Some flour is mixed with it, and the stuff is spread in thin sheets upon muslin, being then exposed to sunshine for a couple of days.

In the same oriental country walnuts are commonly strung upon twine and after coating them with a mixture of grape molasses and sugar are dried. Travelers bound on long journeys frequently carry these strings of nuts, which afford much nourishment in concentrated shape.

In California a delicious sirup is made from orange juice, which of course is quite rich in sugar. And in Virginia watermelon sirup, which is said to be particularly delicious, is not unknown as a local product.—Philadelphia Press.

No Help For the Dying.

The extreme callousness of the old English gamblers, or gentlemen, as they were then called, is illustrated by the following account which Horace Walpole, the celebrated letter writer, gives of a curious occurrence at White's coffee house in London. In one of his epistles to Sir Horace Mann, under date of Sept. 1, 1750, he says: "They have put into the papers a good story, made at White's. A man dropped down dead at the door and was carried in. The club immediately made bets whether he was dead or not, and when they were going to bleed him the wagers for his death interposed and said it would affect the fairness of the bet, and they stopped their efforts."

What Surprised Him.

The minister of a certain church was greatly exercised by the drowsy habits of his people. Taking them to task on this score on Sunday afternoon, he remarked: "I see a great many of you overcome with sleep. I do not wonder at it, for the weather is oppressive, your work is hard and many of you have come a long way. Therefore," he added, "I am not surprised to see many of you asleep, but what surprises me is to see many sleeping who have had such a comfortable sleep here in the morning."—Pearson's Weekly.

Two Kinds of Insomnia.

"When Nan was engaged to Jack she didn't get enough sleep because she had to lie awake and think how much she loved him."

"Well?"

"And now their engagement is broken, and now she doesn't get enough sleep because she has to lie awake to hate him."

Caught.

"Well, well! I'm surprised to hear of Miss Passy being engaged to Mr. Gayman. He's so awfully fast, you know."

Work For the Grand Jury.

It is almost impossible for farmers to secure help, male or female, and the same can be said of the city folks. The old saying of "a bird that can sing and wont sing, should be made to sing," is a very good maxim to go by in regard to the servant problem. If the coming Grand Jury will make a thorough investigation into the number of vagrants both male and female, that are in this community it might help matters along a little. The time is about here when the county will be called on to provide coal and provisions for a number of these vagrants.

Mrs. McClintock Wins Her Suit.

After deliberating five hours the jury in the Dr. C. M. Taylor will contest case at Little Rock, Ark., returned a verdict at 11 o'clock Saturday night in favor of Mrs. Maud McClintock, the contestant.

The verdict simply read, "We find against the will." Dr. Taylor left an estate of $520,000. He executed the will March 2, 1904, leaving his estate to his wife and two children by his second marriage. Mrs. Maud McClintock, of Lexington, Ky., a child by his first wife, was given only $5,000. The will stated that if she contested the will she was to receive one cent.

Mrs. McClintock contested the will, alleging that her father had insane delusions regarding her love and affection for him and that he had disinherited her on that account. The trial continued for two weeks and attracted attention throughout the country.

Her share will be, therefore, under the verdict about $115,000, the widow receiving one-third and the balance being equally divided among the three children.
